Royal Rangers in Latin America & the Caribbean

Please allow Kerry and me to reflect on the advancements that took place in the Royal Rangers ministry throughout Latin American and the Caribbean during our second term of service in Costa Rica:

Praise report: Royal Rangers training events (like Leadership Training Courses, National Training Camps, Instructor's Certification Seminars and several other advanced training events) were conducted in 14 Latin American countries during this term. Trained men have caused ministry growth. In 1989, when we began serving in the region, there were 12,000 Rangers. In 1995, there were 30,000. Today, 5000 trained men have grown the ministry to over 45,000. But these leaders refuse to rest on their laurels. For that reason, men from nine countries convened twice at Camp Summit in 2001 to review ways we can increase the effectiveness of our evangelism and discipleship materials.

Doug leads a meeting with National Commanders at Camp Summit.

Missions opportunity: The following is a fact: "Grow your leaders and they will grow the ministry." Pray that this Macedonian call will be heard by a man ready to seize an opportunity. A fully appointed Royal Rangers missionary is needed who has a heart to grow leaders throughout Mexico, Central and South America, and the Caribbean, to disciple today's boy to be tomorrow's man. 45,000 boys is a scratch on the surface compared to the 85 million unsaved boys in the region. "How can they call on the one they have not believed in? How can they believe in the one of whom they have not heard? And how can they hear without someone preaching to them?" (Romans 10:14).

National Royal Rangers Commanders from nine countries served on staff at the Gold Bar Training camp in July 2001.

Thank you for your constant support. With God's help, together we will see the Royal Rangers ministry in Latin America and the Caribbean explode in growth during the next decade. Our partnership together truly is determining the destiny of nations!
